Title I Parent Meeting

October 13, 2021

Welcome!

Tonight's meeting is to share some basic facts about our school and our students' progress, and to answer your questions.

We are a Title I school, which means we get some extra federal government money to help meet special needs in the school. We use the money to pay a reading teacher. She teaches basic literacy to students who are not already reading in their first language, or who have not yet learned the English letter sounds because they use a different writing system. A small part of the funding helps us track reading progress for all students.

Like all schools, we are required to provide fully qualified teachers for your students. We have 18 teachers.

- 100% have bachelor's degrees.
- 50% have master's degrees.
- 50% have ESL endorsements.
- 94% have the correct credentials from Utah for what they are teaching. One is changing her credentials from social studies to special education.

We are a “Turnaround School”

This program helps schools by providing consultants to work with the teachers and principal to improve instruction. We “qualified” by having low state test scores. As you know, our students score poorly on state tests because they are new to English, and the tests are English-intensive. The consultant from a company called EdDirections is helping us make improvements to the school.

Thanks for joining us!

You can help your child succeed in school by...

- Making sure he or she reads something every day, in English or any language.
- Making sure he or she attends school every day, on time, unless ill.
